DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 1, 7, 13 and 19 are objected to because of the following informalities:

- the phrase “bookmarking, all at once, the plurality of Web pages” in Claim 1, Line 5 should be amended to — bookmarking, all at once, a portion of the plurality of Web pages — because subsequent claims indicate that not all of the Web pages are bookmarked (e.g., see Claim 2); Claims 7, 13 and 19 have the same problem.

Claims 5, 11, 17 and 23 are objected to because of the following informalities:

- the phrase “part of” in Claim 5, Line 2 should be amended to — included in — because “unbookmarked” pages cannot be “part of a chain” of “bookmarked” pages; Claims 11, 17 and 23 have the same problem.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 5, 11, 17 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 5, 11, 17 and 23:

Claim 5 recites the limitation "wherein accessed Web pages that are not bookmarked are part of the chain of bookmarked Web pages but are not live" in Lines 1-3. The limitation is indefinite because it is unclear what is meant by the phrase "not live." This limitation could mean that the "unbookmarked" pages: 1) are not currently displayed on the computer monitor; 2) are dead hyperlinks; or 3) cannot be accessed via the hyperlink in the displayed chain of Web pages. Thus, the scope of the present invention cannot be determined. Claims 11, 17 and 23 have the same problem.

For purposes of examination, the examiner will assume that the limitation will be amended to read as follows: "wherein accessed Web pages that are not bookmarked are included in the chain of bookmarked Web pages but are not accessible via a hyperlink in the displayed chain of bookmarked Web pages."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 7, 8, 13, 14, 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bauersfeld et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,195,679.

Claim 1:

Bauersfeld discloses a method of bookmarking a path to a web page (see Column 1, Lines 9-13), said path including a plurality of Web pages (see Column 1, Line 66 through Column 2, Line 23 – Bauersfeld discloses this limitation in that the session recording system records all web pages that the user visits during a session and organizes them into paths), said method comprising the steps of:

- successively accessing the plurality of Web pages (see Column 3, Lines 1-10 – Bauersfeld discloses this limitation in that the user visits web pages during the session); and
- bookmarking, all at once, the plurality of Web pages (see Column 3, Line 11 through Column 4, Line 58 – Bauersfeld discloses this limitation in that the session recording system allows the user to edit the session paths and saved the edited paths; thus, upon saving the edited paths, the user “bookmarks a plurality of Web pages all at once”).

Claim 2:

Bauersfeld discloses the method of Claim 1, wherein a number less than the plurality of the accessed Web pages are bookmarked (see Column 3, Line 11 through Column 4, Line 58 – Bauersfeld discloses this limitation in that the session recording system allows the user to select which of the previously visited web pages are included in the edited session paths).

Claims 7 and 8:

Claims 7 and 8 merely recite computer software that performs the methods of Claims 1 and 2, respectively. The invention in Bauersfeld is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bauersfeld discloses every element of Claims 7 and 8 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1 and 2.

Claims 13 and 14:

Claims 13 and 14 merely recite an apparatus that performs the methods of Claims 1 and 2, respectively. The invention in Bauersfeld is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bauersfeld discloses every element of Claims 13 and 14 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1 and 2.

Claims 19 and 20:

Claims 19 and 20 merely recite computer system that performs the methods of Claims 1 and 2, respectively. The invention in Bauersfeld is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bauersfeld discloses every element of Claims 19 and 20 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1 and 2.

Claims 1-4, 6-10, 12-16, 17-22 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bates et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,557,015.

Claim 1:

Bates discloses a method of bookmarking a path to a web page (see Column 2, Lines 49-59 – Bates discloses this limitation in that the hypertext document navigation system allows the user to record a document trail between an origination hypertext document to a destination hypertext document), said path including a plurality of web pages (Bates discloses this limitation in that the document trail includes a plurality of hypertext documents), said method comprising the steps of:

- successively accessing the plurality of Web pages (see Column 8, Lines 18-32 – Bates discloses this limitation in that the hypertext document navigation system allows the user to navigate from the origination hypertext document to the destination hypertext document); and
- bookmarking, all at once, the plurality of Web pages (see Column 7, Lines 35-49; see Column 8, Lines 48-53 – Bates discloses this limitation in that the hypertext document navigation system allows the user to create a document trail that records, “all at once,” the URLs of the hypertext documents in said trail).

Claim 2:

Bates discloses the method of Claim 1, wherein a number less than the plurality of the accessed Web pages are bookmarked (see Column 8, Lines 18-60 – Bates discloses this limitation in that, when creating a document trail, the hypertext document navigation system records only those hypertext documents between the anchor document and the current document being viewed).

Claim 3:

Bates discloses the method of Claim 2, wherein the bookmarked Web pages are displayed as a chain of bookmarked Web pages (see Column 9, Lines 46-64 – Bates discloses this limitation in that the hypertext document navigation system includes a user interface that displays a list of the hypertext documents on the document trail).

Claim 4:

Bates discloses the method of Claim 3, wherein the bookmarked Web pages are displayed in the chain in the order accessed (see Column 9, Lines 6-64 – Bates discloses this limitation in that the hypertext document navigation system stores the hypertext documents on the document trail in the order accessed by the user and displays those documents in a list).

Claim 6:

Bates discloses the method of Claim 3, wherein accessed Web pages that are not bookmarked are not part of the chain of bookmarked Web pages (Bates discloses this limitation in that the document trail includes only those hypertext documents that are between the anchor document and the current document being viewed; the document trail does not include the hypertext documents previously accessed by the user and not located between the anchor document and the current document being viewed).

Claims 7-10 and 12:

Claims 7-10 and 12 merely recite computer software that performs the methods of Claims 1-4 and 6, respectively. The invention in Bates is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bates discloses every element of Claims 7-10 and 12 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1-4 and 6.

Claims 13-16 and 18:

Claims 13-16 and 18 merely recite an apparatus that performs the methods of Claims 1-4 and 6, respectively. The invention in Bates is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bates discloses every element of Claims 13-16 and 18 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1-4 and 6.

Claims 19-22 and 24:

Claims 19-22 and 24 merely recite computer system that performs the methods of Claims 1-4 and 6, respectively. The invention in Bates is generally related to computers and computer software. Accordingly, Bates discloses every element of Claims 19-22 and 24 using the same rationale set forth in the above rejections for Claims 1-4 and 6.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5, 11, 17 and 23 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Applicant must also overcome all objections to the claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Claims 5, 11, 17 and 23:

The prior art fails to disclose or suggest a method of bookmarking a path to a web page, comprising:

- successively accessing a plurality of web pages; and
- bookmarking, all at once, a portion of the plurality of Web pages, wherein less than all of the accessed plurality of Web pages are bookmarked, wherein the bookmarked Web pages are displayed, in the order accessed, as a chain of the bookmarked Web pages, and wherein accessed Web pages that are not bookmarked are included in the chain of bookmarked Web pages but are not accessible via a hyperlink in the displayed chain of bookmarked Web pages.

Conclusion

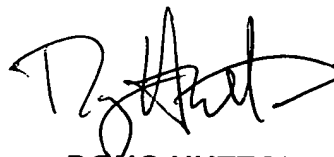

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Adams et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,334,145; Dutta, U.S. Patent No. 6,658,402; Bates et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,184,886; and Rishel, U.S. Patent Application Publication No. US 2002/0138486.
